CITY'S HEALTH

But One Grave Dug in Hopewell During Month.

All Records as to Health Have Been Broken by September.

Hopkinsville is undoubtedly the healthiest city of approximate size in Kentucky. In conversation with a leading undertaker yesterday he said that but one grave had been dug in Hopewell Cemetery this month, and that was for the body of Mr. A. L. Carter, who died in Pembroke—not a single death in the city for the month up to the 25th.

Think of it! We challenge any place of Hopkinsville's size showing anything like this. Whilst there has been more or less sickness, yet it has been very light, including a few cases of typhoid fever and a few cases of other ailments. The sanitary measures adopted by the city administration doubtless had much to do with this. What were considered radical measures in ridding the city of weeds and other causes of disease have surely gone far toward securing the health of the people and the administration is entitled to the gratitude of all for what it has done. People are beginning to look favorably upon the city's efforts to secure the health, to say nothing of public decency, and will hereafter more generally keep their premises as they should be kept without compulsion on the part of the health officer or anyone else.

HAPPY CHILDREN.

School Trustees Gave An All-Day Holiday.

After days of anxiety as to whether the public schools would be closed yesterday, the children were perfectly delighted Tuesday when the teachers in each room of the three schools told them they were excused until this morning. Whether they all went to the circus or not, they were all happy over their first holiday of the new school year.

TEAM RAN OFF

And the Occupants of Wagon Were Injured.

Mr. Allen Williams, a farmer of the Macedonia neighborhood, this county, was seriously injured in a runaway accident Tuesday. Mr. Williams had taken a load of melons to St. Charles and his team became frightened and ran off, throwing him out of the wagon. His mother and another woman, who were with him, were also hurt.

THE WRONG MAN

Police Have an Early Ride After Godfrey Ray.

Reward of $750 Proves Good Tonic, But Fruitless.

Before the warning note of the rooster on his perch that day was approaching, in the wee sma' hours of Tuesday morning the tinkle of the telephone bell in police headquarters reminded the police officers that all the world was not sleeping.

Answering the call and wondering "What's up now," someone east of the city said that Godfrey Ray, the slayer of John Dickinson at Trenton, was in the neighborhood. Almost quick as thought Joe Claxton and three others of the force started out to capture the fugitive, doubtless calculating as to what they would do with the $750 reward that has been offered for the capture of the negro. Yes, if they should find him glory and a big reward would be theirs—his capture was a certainty—if they found him.

They put their horses to their best speed for fear the negro might change his hiding place and eliminate space like a 40-horse automobile. If any quartet of men on earth could capture the negro they are the ones. But finding always comes before catching, and Godfrey Ray was not to be found. But the negro supposed to be Ray was corraled. Great was the chagrin of the officers when they discovered that they had their early morning ride for nothing more than a negro that escaped from the force of negroes who had been working out their fines in the city court on the streets the day before. They didn't think the game worth the candle, and believing the city would be better off without the negro, or his fine, allowed him to proceed on his journey to—well, anywhere except to Hopkinsville.

The officers are to be congratulated on their promptness in responding to the call, though they are not particularly anxious to make another 4 o'clock rush into the country without there is some assurance that better game is in sight.

"JIMPSON" WEED'S

Seed Causes Death of Little Child at Auburn.

While out in the yard playing with other children, Bunny Roy, the little twenty-months-old baby boy of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hunt, of near Auburn, tore open the burr of a "jimpson" weed and ate the seeds. At noon the baby went to the table and ate a hearty meal. The parents noticed a breaking out on the little one's face. Later the child's sight began to leave him and then he was seized with convulsions, and had one after another until he died.

Anderson's Millinery Opening, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 2 and 3,

Showing an endless array of clever creations, the product of the genius of our new trimmer, Miss Schroeder, of Chicago. Miss Schroeder comes to us with new ideas and new styles, gathered from a daily life in the most fashionable millinery stores of Chicago and New York. Come to the opening and you'll agree with us when we tell you that never in the history of Hopkinsville has there been such "City-like" hats. They all bear that look of elegant simplicity and magnificent quality seldom seen except in the most fashionable centers of the great cities. Best of all, they carry with them that moderation of price made possible only by buying direct from the factories and saving all middlemen's profits. Remember the date, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 2 and 3.

J. H. ANDERSON & COMPANY.
